Regular Man - Bio

Ged is not so much a blues singer but more a bluesifier of songs. Tapping into his love of the Arts, 1970's and being Northern, Ged has conjured up and distilled his life story into his new album, "Regular Man".

As the title of the album suggests, nothing more or nothing less than an honest appraisal of a journey that throws out tales from a septuagenarian perspective.

"This is music only a full grown man could make" - Blues Matters Magazine

Well established on the British blues scene Ged is now pushing the boundaries of the genre carrying a lifetime of influences with a real contemporary feel, to a wider audience. Signed to Bad Monkey Records and supported by Help Musicians, Ged is spreading his music far and wide.

"Wilson is easy on the ear...bringing warmth back to old traditional genres" - Flip Time Magazine

Based in Cheltenham Ged (that's Jed with a G by the way!) grew up in Manchester, a city with a great musical heritage and he carries that northern grounding wherever he goes. Influences span Lightnin' Hopkins, Miles Davis and Bob Dylan and everything ever since oh yes!

"There are elements of his album 'What's Going On' that I don't think one of the blues young guns could deliver"- Fatea Magazine

On stage armed with an acoustic guitar, harmonica and a soul as big as the moon, expect an upbeat intimate show of good vibes, honesty and a touch of laconic humour from this regular man. Having toured the nation, jammed the blues clubs, hit the festivals and played gigs spanning the globe from Chicago to Singapore, Ged is now making his mark.

"Brimful of positive vibes, humour and innovation" - RnR Magazine
